THE WEEK ENDING MAY 13, 1905.

President Roosevelt returned to Washington from his western trip; at the cabinet meeting over which he presided the Loomis Bowen affair was discussed, and it was decided to inter the remains of John Paul Jones at Annapolis; in his speech at Denver on the return trip the chief executive stated p.m.; high tide, 3:33 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. that it was absolutely necessary that the nation assume supervisory control of railroad rates. Governor Cummins of Iowa testified before the Senate committee on interstate commerce in favor of railroad legislation. Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, was transferred to Madrid, and Baron Rosen, former Russian minister to Tokyo, was appointed to succeed him. In a reply to the State Department, Consul General Mason stated that the new German tariff will be injurious to American trade with that country. The protected cruiser St. Louis was successfully launched at Philadelphia. The third week of the teamsters' strike in Chicago began with the employers apparently having the advantage; the tacit agreement that there should be no riots in that city during the presence of the President there was not kept, and one man was killed and several injured in Indictments against two unnamed officials of the Standard Oil Company were found by a grand jury at Pekin, Ill. The Italian government interested itself in the case of Mrs. Anna Valentine, under sentence of death for murder at Hackensack, N. J., and she was reprieved until the United States Supreme Court can review her case. The British government refused to grant a full pardon to Mrs. Maybrick. Miss "Nan" Patterson was set free without bail in New York city and returned to her parents' home, in Washington. It was estimated that 120 persons were killed by a tornado which swept over Snyder, Oklahoma Terri-tory, and vicinity, 95 bedies having been recovered in that town and 25 deaths being reported in outlying districts; the property damage was placed at $500,000. Twenty-six persons were killed and forty-four injured, some fatally, by a cyclone that wrecked part of the town of Marquette, Kans. At least 22 persons were killed and probably 75 injured by the Cleveland and railroad, running into a freight train con aining dynamite, which exploded, at South Harrisburg, Pa.; among those killed was S ager. By an explosion of dynamite at the Cora mine, near Butte, Mont., seven men were killed and one badly injured. Herbert V. Croker, a son of Richard Croker, died on a train in Kansas, supposedly of poison mysteriously administered.

Foreign Affairs.

Definite information as to the whereabouts of the two Russian fleets was withheld, but it was believed at the Russian admiralty that Admirals Rojestvensky and Nebogatoff had effected a junction near Salgon: the question of French neutralicy reached a somewhat acute stage, and a statement was issued in Paris setting forth the French government's position; the authorities in French Indo-Chinese waters were instructed not to allow a junction of the fleets in French territory; four Russian torpedo boats appeared off the Island of Hokkaido, the most northerly of the Japanese group, and selzed and burnet a small sailing vessel, disappearing in the direction of Vladivostok; advices from Manchuria indicated that Oyama is ready to give battle, the east and west wings having made material advances, and driving in the Russian cavalry detachments; strike dis-turbances continued, but, declaring the time inopportune for revolution, the Pol'sh socialist party ordered striking workmen to return to their labors. The centenary of the death of Schiller was observed throughout Germany and in all European cities where the German language is spoken. A widespread con-spiracy against the government of Brazii was disclosed by the arrest in Madril of a former king-at-arms of the Spanish
